ROSES

HYBRID TEA ROSES

OUR ROSES are field-grown plants, having been cultivated in fields during the past two years. In fall they are carefully dug, planted in pots, and stored in cold storehouses, where artificial heat is only used to exclude severe frost, and are then moved into frames outdoors in early spring and gradually exposed to the weather. Under this treatment the plants develop in the most natural way, and are much superior to stock which has been forced in a high temperature into unnatural and weakened growth, and to comparatively worthless roses which are sold so cheaply in a dormant condition.

All varieties listed are 75¢ each; $8.00 per doz.; $60.00 per 100. Except as noted.

FERTILIZE FOR RESULTS

Most soils in this section are low in organic matter and plant food. To obtain satisfactory results in growth and flower, the plants must have help from us. This can be done at planting time and periodically thereafter.

For soils that are sandy and will not hold water or plant foods, provide humus by applying Hyper-Humus freely. This is pure organic matter on which green cover crops have been grown. It is sterilized (no weeds, no odors, no disease) and shredded, making it easy to use. It will hold $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 times its weight in water, which makes it ideal for this type of soil during a dry summer.

On clay and heavy soils, the same material opens the closely packed particles, allowing the water to seep through, the roots to reach out more easily, and insures a stronger plant.

Provide food by application of any of the fertilizers listed on page 41. They are all tried and tested brands which we recommend unconditionally if not applied too heavily. It is much better to make two light applications than one that is heavy enough to burn the plant.

New varieties, improving on old favorites, are continually being developed which offer better color or longer season of bloom. We try to have the better sorts for your pleasure.

From April to October some plants put forth a display of flowers giving great variety of color and form. By careful selection continuous blooms may be had from frost to frost. All varieties have been tested by us and come recommended for hardiness.

*Except where noted all perennials are priced 25¢ each;
$2.50 per dozen.*
